Senator Suggests Talented Young Men Aid In New Nations

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 2 (AP)—Senator Kennedy proposed tonight the establishment of a peace corps in which young men could serve in underdeveloped nations for three years instead of being drafted for military duty.

Warning that "the enemy advances now by non-military methods," the Democratic presidential candidate said this country must have representatives abroad of greater talent and training, especially in the newly emerging nations that need specialized help.

"We can push a button to start the next war but there is no pushbutton magic to bring a just and lasting peace," Mr. Kennedy said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Cow Palace.

Ends California Drive

The talk marked the wind-up of Mr. Kennedy's final two-day bid for the 32 electoral votes of California, home state of his Republican opponent, Vice President Nixon.

Earlier, Mr. Kennedy accused the Eisenhower administration of using national defense funds for political ends and pledged, if elected, to push for speedy action on measures to raise educational standards.

In his speech here, Mr. Kennedy proposed that present efforts to aid underdeveloped areas of the world be supplemented by a corps of "talented young men willing and able to serve in countries in this fashion for three years as an alternative to peacetime Selective Service."

Would Open Corps To Women

He said the corps would be open to women as well as men and that all its members would be well qualified through rigorous standards and well trained in the language, skills and customs they would need to know.

"We cannot discontinue training our young men as soldiers of war," he said. "But we also need them as ambassadors of peace."

Mr. Kennedy said this would be a voluntary corps drawn from every race and walk of life from among young people "eager to serve the cause of peace in the most useful way."

"I am convinced," Mr. Kennedy said, "that our young men and women, dedicated to freedom, are fully capable of overcoming the efforts of Mr. Khrushchev's missionaries, who are dedicated to undermining that freedom."

Hits Timing On Funds

The senator said these proposals offered no quick and easy solution to the problems of peace but he called them "essential tools."

In a statement released in Los Angeles before flying to San Diego, San Jose and San Francisco, Mr. Kennedy called money released for the B70 program, use of defense funds for political purposes.

He said "transparent political maneuver lies behind the Administration's decision to release an additional $155 million for development" of the supersonic B70 bomber.

He said that amount of money, and more, was made available for the B70 by the Democratic Congress a year and a half ago.

"The Republican administration wait until a week before election to release the funds speaks for itself," Kennedy said. "The objective is not to increase national defenses, it is to increase Republican votes."

School Aid Priority Pledged

Mr. Kennedy also pledged at a "key to victory" breakfast attended by about 1,500 women that a new Democratic administration would give top priority to legislation providing federal aid for school construction and teacher's salaries.

On the flight to San Diego aboard his private plane, the Caroline, Mr. Kennedy received his third secret briefing from the Central Intelligence Agency since his nomination last July.

Gen. Charles R. Cabell, deputy director of the CIA, was closeted with Mr. Kennedy for 10 to 15 minutes. General Cabell told newsmen he had prepared a written memorandum and went over it orally with the senator.

Briefing Asked By Kennedy

The briefing was requested by Mr. Kennedy. An aid said he wanted "to find out if there was anything he should know to fulfill his duty to the country." Mr. Kennedy's last briefing by the CIA took place in Washington about a month ago.

Mr. Kennedy's rallies at San Diego and San Jose prior to his speech in Cow Palace rounded out his final bid to win the 32 electoral votes of California.

Aids were cheered by the tumultuous reception the senator received in Los Angeles yesterday.

Sen. Claiborne (D., Calif.), traveling aboard Mr. Kennedy's plane, predicted Mr. Kennedy would carry the state by 500,000 votes. He called that a conservative estimate.
